2011
RESOURCE DIRECTORY

OHIO DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH

Ohio Law requires the Ohio Department of Health to provide information about "...family planning information, of publicly funded agencies that are available to assist her in family planning, and of public and private agencies and services that are available to assist her through her pregnancy, upon childbirth, and while her child is dependent, including, but not limited to, adoption." [Ohio Revised Code Sec. 2317.56(C)]

For corrections, changes, or to add an organization to the next edition of this directory, please send the name, address, phone number of the agency or organization, a brief description of the services offered, and any other information you feel would be helpful to:

THE FATHER'S DUTY

The father of a child has a legal duty to support his child. That duty can include child support payments and health insurance.

A child may be eligible through his or her father for social security, pension, veterans or disability benefits. He or she may have rights of inheritance or life insurance benefits. In addition, the child will know his or her medical history.

Paternity can be established two ways:

1. the father can sign the birth certificate or a statement of paternity,
or
2. an action in court.

With paternity establishment, the child has a bond with his or her father. The child does not have to experience the problems often facing a child who does not know who his or her father is.

More information concerning paternity establishment may be obtained from the Ohio Department of Job and Family Services or the county Child Support Enforcement Agency, both of which may be contacted by calling 1-800-686-1556.

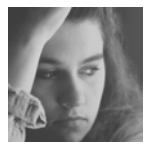

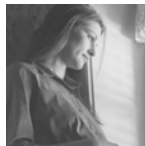

INTRODUCTION

This directory will tell you where you can go for help with many of the needs you may have. First, find the kind of agency that can give you the help you need from the short list below.

Then, from the regional listing find the county you live in and go to that region of the book and you will find specific agencies that offer financial help, medical services, food, counseling, and other services. The address or phone number should be listed.

Some of the agencies are run by the government; others are private and may or may not have religious affiliations. The services each agency provides may vary from county to county. Most are free or based upon ability to pay.

Inclusion in this directory does not necessarily imply an endorsement by the Ohio Department of Health.

TYPES OF AGENCIES

ADOPTION AGENCIES

These agencies help you through the adoption process, including the adoption plan. You can have a great deal of control over the process when you place your baby for adoption.

CHILD AND FAMILY HEALTH CLINICS

These clinics will give medical care to you for your pregnancy, including nutrition and social help, and tell you about other programs where you can get help.

FAMILY PLANNING AGENCIES

These agencies will teach you about how to plan your family and about health problems and risks.

LOCAL HEALTH DEPARTMENTS

These government agencies provide some personal health services, including immunizations and tests for sexually transmitted diseases. Most departments also have public health nurses who will come to your home.

COUNTY DEPARTMENTS OF JOB AND FAMILY SERVICES

These government agencies can tell you about programs that will help pay for prenatal care, hospital care and care for your new baby. They can also tell you how to get child support and may give you food stamps.

SOCIAL SERVICE AGENCIES

These private agencies provide pregnancy counseling, adoption services, support networks, foster care and referrals to various supportive programs.

PREGNANCY HELP CENTERS

These agencies are privately funded and often staffed by volunteers. They offer counseling, adoption and other services referrals. Many can help you get baby clothes and furniture, medical assistance and other help.

WIC NUTRITION PROGRAM

This program will give you coupons for free foods that are good for you and your baby, as well as other children up to 5 years of age. WIC teaches you about a healthy diet, and tells you about other programs where you can get help.
